Camp David Accords

CAMP DAVID ACCORDS In 1977, Egyptian President Anwar el-Sadat surprised the world by visiting Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin. President Carter seized the opportunity for bringing peace to the Middle East by inviting the two leaders to Camp David, the President's retreat in Maryland. There, Sadat and Begin hammered out the terms for a peace treaty known as the Camp David Accords. The two leaders signed the treaty in 1979. Other Arab nations, however, still refused to recognize Israel.
